Summary

My name is Mayantha Sithum Kaveesha. I am an undergraduate software engineering student with a deep-seated passion for technology and problem-solving. My journey in tech began with a simple curiosity about how digital systems operate, which quickly grew into a dedicated pursuit of building functional web applications. While mastering the core principles of computer science at campus, I actively apply my knowledge to craft modern, user-centric solutions. I am driven by the challenge of turning classroom theories into impactful, real-world digital experiences.
